

ACCOUNTABILITY

for the single parent

...but pity anyone who falls and has no one to help them up.

Ecclesiastes 4:10

a resource provided by becausefamily.org

1. How have you grown through Bible study and prayer this week?

2. Have you lived for Christ in front of your family and others this week through your witness, attitudes, actions, and lifestyle?
Where can you grow in this area?

3. Are you being obedient to God?

4. Have you taken time to care for your physical/mental/emotional well being through rest, nutrition, and physical activity?

5. Have you read viewed or listened to anything that would compromise your physical, mental, and emotional purity this week?

You and God

6. Do you have concerns about anything influencing your child(ren) in a way you don't feel is appropriate?

7. What ways are you making sure that you are the number one influence in the lives of your child(ren)? Where can you improve?

8. Have you spent quality time with each child this week? Have you honored each child and shown love through their love language?

9. Have you been pure and honoring in your other relationships?

10. What unmet need or concern do you have in any area that we need to communicate about?

Why Accountability?

Communication is one of the most integral parts of any relationship. This pamphlet was designed to allow you to bring better communication into your relationships as well as your parenting strategy. Use these questions regularly to ensure that everyone in your home is working together to help your family follow the way scripture teaches us to live.

This pamphlet is a free resource provided by BecauseFamily.org. Visit our website to see many more resources, follow our ministry activity, and even sign up to partner with us financially.
